Gliffaes

A long private drive takes you through an impressive collection of over 100 specimen trees to reach Gliffaes, a former clergyman's house. This 19th-century Italianate building is set in 33-acre grounds in the shadow of the Black Mountains and on the edge of the River Usk in the Brecon Beacons National Park. The surrounding countryside is simply stunning with hills quilted with patchwork woods, hedges and sheep fields.

Now run by Susie and James Suter, Gliffaes has been beautifully restored with stucco-embellished ceilings, Delft tile-rimmed fireplaces, polished barley-twist wood, Lewis & Wood fabrics and antique chairs reupholstered in Welsh tweed. The oak-panelled drawing room with its roaring fire and large comfortable sofas is the perfect place to relax, looked after by a team of friendly and helpful staff giving unobtrusive yet excellent service, making you feel that you are a welcomed house guest in a luxurious country house.

Delicious food

Talented head chef Karl Cheetham has been cooking fine food at Gliffaes for over 10 years. He takes pride in local sourcing and using only sustainable produce according to the season to create an interesting and delicious menu. Breakfast is a treat with homemade muesli, freshly squeezed orange juice, hand-roasted Reads coffee hand-roasted, and local eggs, maple-cured bacon, sausages and Black Mountain salmon. Dinner is a refined affair, with season-inflected dishes championing top-quality regional produce.

Brecon (20 minute drive away)

This attractive market town has a magnificent 11th century cathedral (above), housing the largest Norman font in Britain, and is one of the finest buildings in Wales. The South Wales Borderers Museum is one of the best military museums in the country, telling the story of a regiment that has participated in many of the great events of British History in the last 300 years, including the heroic defence of Rorke's Drift in the Anglo-Zulu war in 1879.

Bridge with Zeb & Claudia

Zeb Stocken has many years experience of teaching and hosting bridge events, and whether you come as a group, in a pair or on your own, you can be certain of an instructive and enjoyable game adapted to your level.

Claudia – Zeb’s sister – will be on hand to ensure the smooth running of your holiday and, as a keen and experienced bridge player herself, she will also be supervising bridge sessions. The bridge programme will be a mixture of teaching, supervised play and some duplicate – all played in a fun and friendly environment. The tuition sessions will use CompassCards (set deals) and a fun topic tailored to the group.

All bridge sessions are optional and open to all standards of play, although we can only accommodate complete beginners if booked as a group of four. It is important to stress that our holidays are not aimed at the type of player who likes a serious 24-board duplicate every night. Our ethos is that bridge should be a friendly and social game where you can meet like-minded people, and our holidays reflect that. No partner is needed on a StockenBridge holiday.
